<"Unko Technica": The Definitive Stylish Poop Action Game>

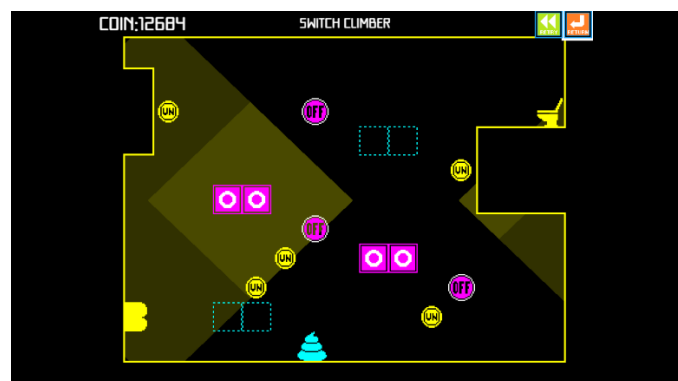

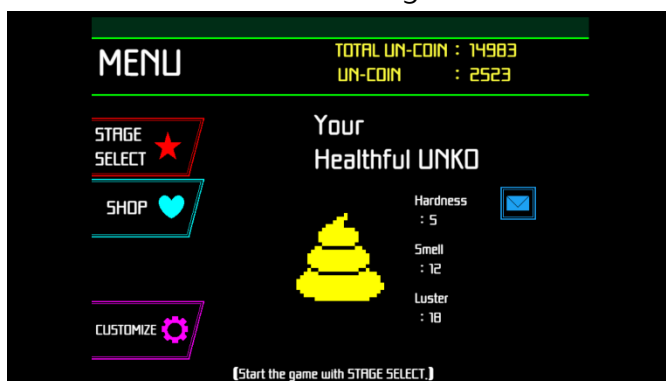

"This game contains absolutely no elements such as a moving story or charming characters."

"Unko Technica" is a hardcore high-difficulty 2D action game where you guide the automatically-moving "poop" to the goal—a toilet—in a cool, neon-lit world.

Players are required to have precise timing and intricate controls.

Contrary to its comical appearance, a hardcore gameplay experience, testing your reflexes and concentration to the extreme, is hidden within.

The game was awarded Honorable Mention at the "2nd GYAAR Studio Indie Game Contest," hosted by Bandai Namco Studios' indie game label "GYAAR Studio" in 2023

● Ultimately Simple, Ultimately Deep Action

The only control in the game is “jump.” With this single, simple action, you will have to conquer over 150 stages. However, what awaits you is a robust action experience that will test your reflexes and concentration to their limits. A high-difficulty challenge awaits, where you will fail many times and aim for the goal through trial and error.

● Diverse Stages Woven with Original Gimmicks

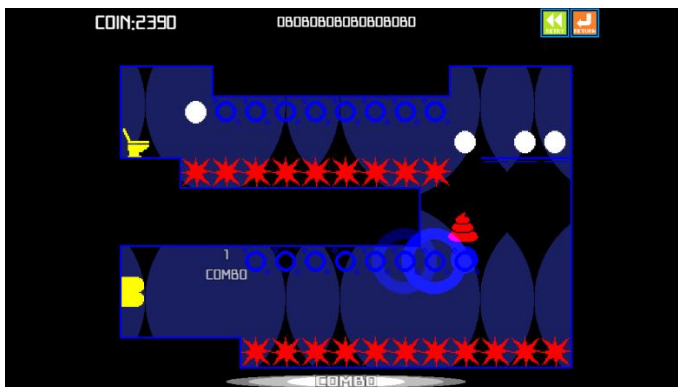

Bubbles that make you jump higher, breakable platforms, spiked walls, ON/OFF switches... As you progress through the stages, unique gimmicks appear one after another. To overcome the different traps in each stage, you’ ll need split-second judgment and puzzle-solving thinking.

● Collect, Spin, and Customize Your Own Poop

By spending “UN-COINS” obtained in the stages, you can spin a gacha to customize the appearance of your poop or unlock even more difficult stages. The game is also packed with replayability, encouraging you to collect all the unique items and aim for completion.

● A World Colored by Cool Visuals and Sound

The retro-futuristic neon-colored graphics that adorn the entire game and the cool BGM that makes the gameplay addictive complete the one-of-a-kind “stylish poop action.”
